

Blue Skies

In blue skies he flew, one of the few Ducking and diving, surviving while those he knew

Fell

One hundred and five.
Still alive
He wondered why Irish luck, he said
It's why I'm not dead
No...not a hero
Just a job we had to do
One of us was going to die
You had to hope it wasn't you

Now he's gone, the very last one to join the few who forever fly
In blue skies

© Sandra Robinson

*A tribute to John "Paddy" Hemingway, the last Battle of Britain pilot,
"One of the Few" who died on 17th March 2025 at the age of 105.*